Chartered Safety and Health Practitioner

Speaker’s Profile;

Mr. Andy LO has accumulated many years’ industry experience which including project management in civil engineering works and higher education and training experience in occupational safety and health (OSH) for the Hong Kong Polytechnic University and the Occupational Safety and Health Council.

During his pro-longed years of service with the Mass Transit Railway Corporation, Andy has involved substantial construction safety management experience which including tunneling construction, bridges and viaducts construction, railway stations and depot construction, track works and rolling stocks, E&M and BS installation and other heavy ventilation plant buildings. The foster a good safety culture issue remains one of his favorable subjects.

Andy has been elected as the Council Member of Institution of Occupational Safety and Health (IOSH) UK from 2004 till 2020 and in between, Vice President of IOSH from 2009 to 2015. He is also the Founder Chairman of IOSH, Hong Kong Branch.

He is also an active Council Member of the Hong Kong Occupational Safety and Health Association (HKOSHA) in Hong Kong and holding a number of key appointments on OSH profession throughout the year.

Synopsis:

The occupational safety and health (OSH) is often viewed as a profession that follows very paper-driven approach, with much emphasis on operational control and process compliance. Many feel that this approach has failed in reducing the fatality rate in recent years.

This is one of the reasons why the “Safety Culture” initiative has emerged with a focus on improving the OSH practices in the general culture of an organization.

The seminar will present the ways in enhancing safety culture in an organization through leadership; two way communications; staff engagement and accountability; training and learning culture; and good OSH behavior.

The presentation will supplement with a number of good and bad practice photographs taken among the other part of the world and to demonstrate the safety culture in different regions.

Our Construction Inspectorate takes an important role in linking the Consultants and Contractors in delivering the project on time, within budgets and safety plus quality. The presentation will be summarized the need for better coordination, cooperation and collaboration among Clients, Consultants, Contractors and the Construction Inspectorate in our engineering profession.
